Introduction
What do we mean by change?

• Merger
• Acquisition
• Closing a plant
• Moving
• Reorganization
• New product or service
• New process
• New software system
• Employee wellness program
Participant Reflection

Think back to a time in your life when you were part of a big change. Was it successful?

If YES:
• What was successful about it?
• Why was it successful?

If NO:
• What was unsuccessful about it?
• Why was it unsuccessful?
What percentage of well reasoned, technically sound change efforts succeed?
What percentage of well reasoned, technically sound change efforts succeed?

<30%
What can we do to increase our odds?

- Clearly describe the case for the change
- Articulate a compelling vision that can be understood by the audience at all levels
- Ensure there are evident, positive consequences for those affected by the change effort
- Identify specific actions people can commit to support and deliver
- Find and share the connection to the leaders’ personal values to make those values believable

Considerations for Potential Change Leadership Team Members

- Are they capable of providing leadership to drive the change?
- Can they influence stakeholders to support the change?
- Are they respected by others in the organization?
- Are they capable of representing perspectives that are not their own?
- Are they willing and able to remove roadblocks?
Steering Team

Transition Support Team Run Rules

In Here

• Set meeting times to be mutually beneficial and then be on time
• Give attention to one another when they are talking
• No interrupting
• Don’t personalize things
• No answering cell phones or texting
• When we are moving too slowly or down a rabbit trail, we’ll say “moving along”

Out There

• What is said in here stays in here
• Be the driving, positive force
• Listen first

Communication
Case for Change Template

• What the Change Is About –

• Why it is Important-

• What Success Will Look Like –

• What I Need From You…….
Case for Change

• What the Change Is About –
  – We are moving Hood River staff from 3 locations to 1 brand new building.

• Why it is Important -
  – We will get more done and save money. It will be even safer and more comfortable for staff and clients.

• What Success Will Look Like –
  – Staff will be happier and we’ll be able to give clients more.

• What I Need From You……..
A Stakeholder is a Person or Group:

• Responsible for the final decision
• Likely to be affected, positively or negatively, by the outcomes you want
• In a position to assist or block achievement of the outcomes
• Equipped with expertise or special resources that could substantially affect the quality of the outcome
Steps for a Stakeholder Analysis

① Identify stakeholders
② Determine required level of commitment for each
③ Hypothesize current level of commitment for each
   a. Don’t know about it
   b. Know about it and do not support it
   c. Will let it happen
   d. Will help it happen
   e. Will make it happen
④ Communication Planning to close the gap
Describe the desired organizational results

Identify a person/group who needs to adopt a pattern of behavior, for the goal to be achieved.

What do you know about this person or group’s tendencies, preferences and perspective that may impact what he/she thinks, feels, knows on this topic, or how they may experience your activities?

Imagine what the person/group needs to think, feel, know to influence a behavior change.

Describe an experience that the person/group might need to have to influence what they think, feel or know.

Brainstorm activities you could undertake that might create the desired experience.

Metrics
Catalyst Best Practice
Considerations for Assessing Change

• Snap a baseline before the change so you have a comparison
• Measure as close to results as possible, not just activity
• Measures don’t have to be perfect; indicators usually suffice
• Collecting data is not a neutral experience
NDI Metrics

• Pre and post survey
  – Current workspace is good 23% (pre), 59% (post)
  – Space for private meetings is good 9% (pre), 72% (post)
  – I’m happily sticking around 23% (pre), 69% (post)

• Post-move check-in: sticky notes
  – Save money
  – Save time
  – Give more to clients
A Case for Existence Structures
In Summary

• Change is hard and messy
• You can help make a difference
  • A compelling purpose
  • Inspiring team
  • Thoughtful communication
  • Metrics that matter
